The Healthcare Commission

The Healthcare Commission exists to promote improvement in the quality of NHS and independent healthcare across England and Wales. It is a new organisation, which started work on April 1st 2004. The Healthcare Commission's full name is the Commission for Healthcare Audit and Inspection.

The Healthcare Commission was created under the Health and Social Care (Community Health and Standards) Act 2003. The organisation has a range of new functions and takes over some responsibilities from other commissions. It:

- replaces the work of the Commission for Health Improvement (CHI), which closed on March 31st 2004
- takes over the private and voluntary healthcare functions of the National Care Standards Commission, which also ceased to exist on March 31st 2004
- picks up the elements of the Audit Commission's work which relate to efficiency, effectiveness and economy of healthcare

In taking over the functions of CHI, the Healthcare Commission now has responsibility for the programme of national patient surveys initiated by CHI.

Introduction

Understanding what patients think about the care and treatment they receive is crucial to improving the quality of care being delivered by the NHS and to ensuring that local health services meet the needs of patients. One way of doing this is by asking patients who have recently used their local health services to tell us about their experiences.

In 2004, the Healthcare Commission carried out seven national surveys of patients covering topics as diverse as hospital inpatient care for adults, services for children and young people, ambulance services and outpatient services.

This year, we revisited two areas covered by the survey programme – mental health services and primary care services – again asking patients to give us their views about the care and treatment they have received.

The first mental health survey was carried out in 2004. In 2005, the survey involved 81 NHS trusts services (including combined mental health and social care trusts, and primary care trusts) that are responsible for providing secondary mental health. We received responses from more than 26,500 service users.

Interpreting the report

For each question in the survey, the individual responses were scored on a scale of 0 to 100. A score of 100 represents the best possible response¹.

Each bar represents the range of results across all trusts that took part in the survey for each question.

The bar is divided into three coloured segments:

- the left hand end (coloured red) shows the scores for the 20% of trusts with the lowest scores
- the right hand end (coloured green) shows the scores for the 20% of trusts with the highest scores
- the middle section (coloured orange) represents the range of scores for the remaining 60% of trusts

The score for this trust is shown on each bar by a white diamond. So, for example, if the diamond is in the green section of the bar, the trust is in the best 20% of trusts in England.

The line either side of the diamond shows the amount of uncertainty surrounding the trust value, as a result of random fluctuation².

The data used for the charts is shown in table 1. Table 2 gives background information about the service users that we surveyed.

¹ The results have been weighted by the age and sex of respondents. The trust level results are standardised, so that their age-sex profile reflects the national age-sex distribution (based on all of the survey respondents). This is so that results can be compared between trusts with different patient profiles.

² This is the 95% confidence interval indicating that in 95% of cases we can expect the true value to be within this range. Where fewer than 30 people answered a question at this trust the diamond is not shown because the uncertainty around the result would be too great. Note also that when identifying trusts with the highest and lowest scores, trusts with fewer than 30 respondents have not been included.

Please note, the scoring for question 24 “In the last 12 months have you had any talking therapy sessions (e.g. counselling or psychotherapy) from NHS Mental Health Services?” is dependent on each respondent’s answer to question 25 “In the last 12 months, did you want talking therapy?” to reflect the preferences of respondents. Question 24 has therefore been reworded and now reads “In the last 12 months, did the provision of talking therapies meet your requirements?” Details of the scores assigned are provided in the questionnaire on the Healthcare Commission website (see further information section).
